WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 6.75%	APR 6.85%	The big release of the week was the July nonfarm payroll report, which showed employers adding 187K net new jobs last month. A downside miss to the consensus expectation of 200K, July's performance marks the second straight month below 200K, the weakest two-month performance in two and a half years, and marks the sixth consecutive month of downward revisions to the previous month's estimate. Employment growth was broad-based, though reliant on a 87K gain in health care & social assistance. Modest gains from construction, financial activities and hospitality also contributed to private sector job growth. Weakness was also evident with job losses in professional & business services, manufacturing, information and temporary help, a reminder that the Fed's monetary policy tightening efforts are having a cooling effect on some of the more cyclical parts of the economy. The unemployment rate fell for the second straight month to 3.5%, a tick above the 53-year low in January and April of this year and a reminder that the labor market remains tight even with the lower-than-expected headline payroll readings. Average hourly earnings beat expectations and rose 0.4% month-over-month in July. The three-month annualized pace of 4.9% stands above the year-over-year pace of 4.4%, indicating upward pressures are still evident, according to this measure of wages. That said, the more comprehensive Employment Cost Index showed that labor costs rose at the slowest pace in two years during the past quarter, which should temper FOMC concerns about the stronger-than-expected average hourly earnings performance. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE	APR	The big release of the week was the July nonfarm payroll report, which showed employers adding 187K net new jobs last month. A downside miss to the consensus expectation of 200K, July's performance marks the second straight month below 200K, the weakest two-month performance in two and a half years, and marks the sixth consecutive month of downward revisions to the previous month's estimate. Employment growth was broad-based, though reliant on a 87K gain in health care & social assistance. Modest gains from construction, financial activities and hospitality also contributed to private sector job growth. Weakness was also evident with job losses in professional & business services, manufacturing, information and temporary help, a reminder that the Fed's monetary policy tightening efforts are having a cooling effect on some of the more cyclical parts of the economy. The unemployment rate fell for the second straight month to 3.5%, a tick above the 53-year low in January and April of this year and a reminder that the labor market remains tight even with the lower-than-expected headline payroll readings. Average hourly earnings beat expectations and rose 0.4% month-over-month in July. The three-month annualized pace of 4.9% stands above the year-over-year pace of 4.4%, indicating upward pressures are still evident, according to this measure of wages. That said, the more comprehensive Employment Cost Index showed that labor costs rose at the slowest pace in two years during the past quarter, which should temper FOMC concerns about the stronger-than-expected average hourly earnings performance. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 6.75%	APR 6.85%	The big release of the week was the July nonfarm payroll report, which showed employers adding 187K net new jobs last month. A downside miss to the consensus expectation of 200K, July's performance marks the second straight month below 200K, the weakest two-month performance in two and a half years, and marks the sixth consecutive month of downward revisions to the previous month's estimate. Employment growth was broad-based, though reliant on a 87K gain in health care & social assistance. Modest gains from construction, financial activities and hospitality also contributed to private sector job growth. Weakness was also evident with job losses in professional & business services, manufacturing, information and temporary help, a reminder that the Fed's monetary policy tightening efforts are having a cooling effect on some of the more cyclical parts of the economy. The unemployment rate fell for the second straight month to 3.5%, a tick above the 53-year low in January and April of this year and a reminder that the labor market remains tight even with the lower-than-expected headline payroll readings. Average hourly earnings beat expectations and rose 0.4% month-over-month in July. The three-month annualized pace of 4.9% stands above the year-over-year pace of 4.4%, indicating upward pressures are still evident, according to this measure of wages. That said, the more comprehensive Employment Cost Index showed that labor costs rose at the slowest pace in two years during the past quarter, which should temper FOMC concerns about the stronger-than-expected average hourly earnings performance.
