WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 5.99%	APR 6.31%	Residential groundbreakings are downshifting, with single-family starts the primary drag. Although single-family starts edged up in May, permits declined for the third consecutive month. The recent pullback in single family permits has occurred against a backdrop of intensifying headwinds for home builders. In addition to persistently elevated mortgage rates, there is now more options for buyers in the resale market. Meantime, new home supply is elevated relative to sales, especially in key building markets in the South. Low readings on builder confidence suggest more weakness in single-family construction is in store. Meanwhile, apartment construction is stabilizing alongside strong rental demand and steadying vacancy rates for apartments. That said, multifamily permits have edged lower over the past several months, which points to a near-term downshift in development. Given the trend lower in total permits over the past several months, we expect housing starts dropped to a 1.23 million-unit pace in June. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE	APR	Residential groundbreakings are downshifting, with single-family starts the primary drag. Although single-family starts edged up in May, permits declined for the third consecutive month. The recent pullback in single family permits has occurred against a backdrop of intensifying headwinds for home builders. In addition to persistently elevated mortgage rates, there is now more options for buyers in the resale market. Meantime, new home supply is elevated relative to sales, especially in key building markets in the South. Low readings on builder confidence suggest more weakness in single-family construction is in store. Meanwhile, apartment construction is stabilizing alongside strong rental demand and steadying vacancy rates for apartments. That said, multifamily permits have edged lower over the past several months, which points to a near-term downshift in development. Given the trend lower in total permits over the past several months, we expect housing starts dropped to a 1.23 million-unit pace in June. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
	RATE	APR	Residential groundbreakings are downshifting, with single-family starts the primary drag. Although single-family starts edged up in May, permits declined for the third consecutive month. The recent pullback in single family permits has occurred against a backdrop of intensifying headwinds for home builders. In addition to persistently elevated mortgage rates, there is now more options for buyers in the resale market. Meantime, new home supply is elevated relative to sales, especially in key building markets in the South. Low readings on builder confidence suggest more weakness in single-family construction is in store. Meanwhile, apartment construction is stabilizing alongside strong rental demand and steady vacancy rates for apartments. That said, multifamily permits have edged lower over the past several months, which points to a near-term downshift in development. Given the trend lower in total permits over the past several months, we expect housing starts dropped to a 1.23 million-unit pace in June.
