WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 2.80%	APR 3.11%	The end of August usually marks the beginning of the slow season for housing, but as with everything else, this year's trends are like no other. Mortgage applications to purchase a home rose 3% last week and were a stunning 40% higher from a year ago, according to the Mortgage Bankers Association's seasonally adjusted index. The year-on-year comparison is usually in single digits. While the figure may have been skewed slightly by the Labor Day holiday, which fell earlier last year, purchase demand is still running significantly higher than a year ago. Buyers are still getting significant incentive from low mortgage rates. The average contract interest rate for 30-year fixed mortgages with conforming loan balances up to $510,400 fell to 3.07% for loans with a 20% down payment. For the 15-year fixed rate mortgage, the rate declined to a record low of 2.62% on conventional loans. "There continues to be resiliency in the purchase market," said Joel Kan, an MBA economist. "The average loan size continued to increase, hitting a survey high at $368,600. Highlighting the strong overall demand for buying a home, purchase applications all increased last week." 			The end of August usually marks the beginning of the slow season for housing, but as with everything else, this year's trends are like no other. Mortgage applications to purchase a home rose 3% last week from the previous week and were a stunning 40% higher from a year ago, according to the Mortgage Bankers Association's seasonally adjusted index. The year-on-year comparison is usually in single digits. While the figure may have been skewed slightly by the Labor Day holiday, which fell earlier last year, purchase demand is still running significantly higher than a year ago. Buyers are still getting significant incentive from low mortgage rates. The average contract interest rate for 30-year fixed mortgages with conforming loan balances up to $510,400 fell to 3.07% for loans with a 20% down payment. For the 15-year fixed rate mortgage, the rate declined to a record low of 2.62% on conventional loans. "There continues to be resiliency in the purchase market," said Joel Kan, an MBA economist. "The average loan size continued to increase, hitting a survey high at $368,600. Highlighting the strong overall demand for buying a home, purchase applications all increased last week." 			The end of August usually marks the beginning of the slow season for housing, but as with everything else, this year's trends are like no other. Mortgage applications to purchase a home rose 3% last week from the previous week and were a stunning 40% higher from a year ago, according to the Mortgage Bankers Association's seasonally adjusted index. The year-on-year comparison is usually in single digits. While the figure may have been skewed slightly by the Labor Day holiday, which fell earlier last year, purchase demand is still running significantly higher than a year ago. Buyers are still getting significant incentive from low mortgage rates. The average contract interest rate for 30-year fixed mortgages with conforming loan balances up to $510,400 fell to 3.07% for loans with a 20% down payment. For the 15-year fixed rate mortgage, the rate declined to a record low of 2.62% on conventional loans. "There continues to be resiliency in the purchase market," said Joel Kan, an MBA economist. "The average loan size continued to increase, hitting a survey high at $368,600. Highlighting the strong overall demand for buying a home, purchase applications all increased last week."
