WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV			In a strong signal that the housing market is ready to lead a post-COVID economic recovery, builder confidence in the market for newly-built single-family homes jumped 14 points to 72 in July, according to the latest NAHB/Wells Fargo Housing Market Index. The HMI now stands at the solid pre-pandemic reading in March before the outbreak affected much of the nation. "Builders are seeing strong traffic and lot of interest in new construction as existing home inventory remains lean," said NAHB Chairman Chuck Fowke. "Moreover, builders in the Northeast and the Midwest are benefiting from demand that was sidelined during lock-downs in the spring. Low interest rates are also fueling demand, and we expect housing to lead an overall economic recovery." "While the housing market is clearly rebounding, challenges exist," said NAHB Chief Economist Robert Dietz. "Lumber prices are at a two-year high and builders are reporting rising costs for other building materials while lot and skilled labor availability issues persist. Nonetheless, the important story of the changing geography of housing demand is benefiting new construction. New home demand is improving in lower density markets, including small metro areas, rural markets and large metro exurbs, as people seek out larger homes and anticipate more flexibility for telework in the years ahead. Flight to the suburbs is real." Source: NAHB News Release

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV			In a strong signal that the housing market is ready to lead a post-COVID economic recovery, builder confidence in the market for newly-built single-family homes jumped 14 points to 72 in July, according to the latest NAHB/Wells Fargo Housing Market Index. The HMI now stands at the solid pre-pandemic reading in March before the outbreak affected much of the nation. "Builders are seeing strong traffic and lot of interest in new construction as existing home inventory remains lean," said NAHB Chairman Chuck Fowke. "Moreover, builders in the Northeast and the Midwest are benefiting from demand that was sidelined during lock-downs in the spring. Low interest rates are also fueling demand, and we expect housing to lead an overall economic recovery." "While the housing market is clearly rebounding, challenges exist," said NAHB Chief Economist Robert Dietz. "Lumber prices are at a two-year high and builders are reporting rising costs for other building materials while lot and skilled labor availability issues persist. Nonetheless, the important story of the changing geography of housing demand is benefiting new construction. New home demand is improving in lower density markets, including small metro areas, rural markets and large metro exurbs, as people seek out larger homes and anticipate more flexibility for telework in the years ahead. Flight to the suburbs is real." Source: NAHB News Release

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV		RATE 2.89%	APR 3.17%	In a strong signal that the housing market is ready to lead a post-COVID economic recovery, builder confidence in the market for newly-built single-family homes jumped 14 points to 72 in July, according to the latest NAHB/Wells Fargo Housing Market Index. The HMI now stands at the solid pre-pandemic reading in March before the outbreak affected much of the nation. "Builders are seeing strong traffic and lot of interest in new construction as existing home inventory remains lean," said NAHB Chairman Chuck Fowke. "Moreover, builders in the Northeast and the Midwest are benefiting from demand that was sidelined during lock-downs in the spring. Low interest rates are also fueling demand, and we expect housing to lead an overall economic recovery." "While the housing market is clearly rebounding, challenges exist," said NAHB Chief Economist Robert Dietz. "Lumber prices are at a two-year high and builders are reporting rising costs for other building materials while lot and skilled labor availability issues persist. Nonetheless, the important story of the changing geography of housing demand is benefiting new construction. New home demand is improving in lower density markets, including small metro areas, rural markets and large metro exurbs, as people seek out larger homes and anticipate more flexibility for telework in the years ahead. Flight to the suburbs is real." Source: NAHB News Release
