WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

| Financing | | | Market Commentary |
|--|----------------------|---------------------|---|
| CONV | RATE 6.99% | APR 7.25% | |
| FHA | 6.75% | 6.99% | Financial markets pricing in a "higher for longer" interest rate environment -as market participants see monetary policy remaining restrictive for an extended period to ensure inflation returns to 2%-has sent mortgage rates higher in recent weeks. According to Freddie Mac, the average 30-year fixed-rate mortgage rate was 7.1% during the week that ended September 7, down slightly from the previous week but about a percentage point higher than this year's low hit in February. The increase in financing costs back above 7% appears to be weighing heavily on home buying. Mortgage applications for purchase fell for the sixth time in the past seven weeks and dipped 2.1% during the week that ended September 1. The purchase index is now at the lowest level since April 1995. Overall, higher mortgage rates look to be further ending affordability for buyers already challenged by high prices and low resale inventory. As inflation recedes further next year, we look for the FOMC to cut rates starting in the first quarter of 2024. These rate cuts should set the stage for a rebound in economic activity in the second half of the year. Source: Wells Fargo Bank Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary |

| Financing | | | Market Commentary |
|--|-----------------------------|----------------------------|---|
| CONV | RATE 6.99% | APR 7.25% | |
| FHA | 6.75% | 6.99% | Financial markets pricing in a "higher for longer" interest rate environment -as market participants see monetary policy remaining restrictive for an extended period to ensure inflation returns to 2%-has sent mortgage rates higher in recent weeks. According to Freddie Mac, the average 30-year fixed-rate mortgage rate was 7.1% during the week that ended September 7, down slightly from the previous week but about a percentage point higher than this year's low hit in February. The increase in financing costs back above 7% appears to be weighing heavily on home buying. Mortgage applications for purchase fell for the sixth time in the past seven weeks and dipped 2.1% during the week that ended September 1. The purchase index is now at the lowest level since April 1995. Overall, higher mortgage rates look to be further ending affordability for buyers already challenged by high prices and low resale inventory. As inflation recedes further next year, we look for the FOMC to cut rates starting in the first quarter of 2024. These rate cuts should set the stage for a rebound in economic activity in the second half of the year. Source: Wells Fargo Bank Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary |

| Financing | | | Market Commentary |
|--|---------------|--------------|---|
| CONV | RATE 6.99% | APR 7.25% | |
| FHA | 6.75% | 6.99% | Financial markets pricing in a "higher for longer" interest rate environment -as market participants see monetary policy remaining restrictive for an extended period to ensure inflation returns to 2%-has sent mortgage rates higher in recent weeks. According to Freddie Mac, the average 30-year fixed-rate mortgage rate was 7.1% during the week that ended September 7, down slightly from the previous week but about a percentage point higher than this year's low hit in February. The increase in financing costs back above 7% appears to be weighing heavily on home buying. Mortgage applications for purchase fell for the sixth time in the past seven weeks and dipped 2.1% during the week that ended September 1. The purchase index is now at the lowest level since April 1995. Overall, higher mortgage rates look to be further ending affordability for buyers already challenged by high prices and low resale inventory. As inflation recedes further next year, we look for the FOMC to cut rates starting in the first quarter of 2024. These rate cuts should set the stage for a rebound in economic activity in the second half of the year. Source: Wells Fargo Bank Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary |
