WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 2.62%	APR 2.91%	Homeowners enjoyed the largest year-over-year home equity gain in six years during the third quarter. Americans with mortgages (roughly 63% of all properties) saw their home equity increase by an average of $17,000 between July and September 2020 as compared to the same quarter a year ago, according to a quarterly report from mortgage data and analytics firm CoreLogic. Home equity for those homeowners rose by a total of $1 trillion over the year, with the average home equity in the U.S. sitting at $194,000 by the end of September. "One of the biggest drivers of home equity is price growth over the last several months," CoreLogic Chief Economist Dr. Frank Northraft told Yahoo Money. "We saw a huge shortage of homes and the Federal Reserve dropping mortgage interest rates, which led to an acceleration of home prices." In a pandemic when millions of Americans have lost their jobs, the equity increases were largely surprising and have favored certain markets over others. "The single largest effect of the pandemic on the housing market is the opposite of what we all expected in April," Digital Risk President Jeff Taylor told Yahoo Money. "Due to stay-at-home orders people have been driven to invest in their single-family homes to make their living spaces more functional to fit the new normal, especially in suburban areas." 			Homeowners enjoyed the largest year-over-year home equity gain in six years during the third quarter. Americans with mortgages (roughly 63% of all properties) saw their home equity increase by an average of $17,000 between July and September 2020 as compared to the same quarter a year ago, according to a quarterly report from mortgage data and analytics firm CoreLogic. Home equity for those homeowners rose by a total of $1 trillion over the year, with the average home equity in the U.S. sitting at $194,000 by the end of September. "One of the biggest drivers of home equity is price growth over the last several months," CoreLogic Chief Economist Dr. Frank Northhaft told Yahoo Money. "We saw a huge shortage of homes and the Federal Reserve dropping mortgage interest rates, which led to an acceleration of home prices." In a pandemic when millions of Americans have lost their jobs, the equity increases were largely surprising and have favored certain markets over others. "The single largest effect of the pandemic on the housing market is the opposite of what we all expected in April," Digital Risk President Jeff Taylor told Yahoo Money. "Due to stay-at-home orders people have been driven to invest in their single-family homes to make their living spaces more functional to fit the new normal, especially in suburban areas." 			Homeowners enjoyed the largest year-over-year home equity gain in six years during the third quarter. Americans with mortgages (roughly 63% of all properties) saw their home equity increase by an average of $17,000 between July and September 2020 as compared to the same quarter a year ago, according to a quarterly report from mortgage data and analytics firm CoreLogic. Home equity for those homeowners rose by a total of $1 trillion over the year, with the average home equity in the U.S. sitting at $194,000 by the end of September. "One of the biggest drivers of home equity is price growth over the last several months," CoreLogic Chief Economist Dr. Frank Northhaft told Yahoo Money. "We saw a huge shortage of homes and the Federal Reserve dropping mortgage interest rates, which led to an acceleration of home prices." In a pandemic when millions of Americans have lost their jobs, the equity increases were largely surprising and have favored certain markets over others. "The single largest effect of the pandemic on the housing market is the opposite of what we all expected in April," Digital Risk President Jeff Taylor told Yahoo Money. "Due to stay-at-home orders people have been driven to invest in their single-family homes to make their living spaces more functional to fit the new normal, especially in suburban areas."
