10 Yr Yield		4.10%
		Lower borrowing costs would benefit residential real estate. Housing starts downshifted to roughly a 1.5 million-unit annualized pace in December, unwinding some of its robust gain in November. While home construction has been choppy throughout the year, the underlying trend shows single-family strengthening and multifamily weakening. The average 30-year fixed mortgage rate may still be elevated, but it has fallen more than a full percentage point since late October. That has supported home builder confidence and single-family building permits going into the spring selling season. Meantime, the robust pipeline of apartment units currently under construction has cooled new development in the multifamily space. It will take more than a percentage point move on mortgage rates to get would-be sellers to move out of their homes. Many current homeowners bought or refinanced in 2020 and 2021 when mortgage rates were generally below 4%. Source: Wells Fargo Bank Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary

WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE	APR
	6.38%	6.79%
FHA	6.75%	6.99%
10 Yr Yield	4.10%		Lower borrowing costs would benefit residential real estate. Housing starts downshifted to roughly a 1.5 million-unit annualized pace in December, unwinding some of its robust gain in November. While home construction has been choppy throughout the year, the underlying trend shows single-family strengthening and multifamily weakening. The average 30-year fixed mortgage rate may still be elevated, but it has fallen more than a full percentage point since late October. That has supported home builder confidence and single-family building permits going into the spring selling season. Meantime, the robust pipeline of apartment units currently under construction has cooled new development in the multifamily space. It will take more than a percentage point move on mortgage rates to get would-be sellers to move out of their homes. Many current homeowners bought or refinanced in 2020 and 2021 when mortgage rates were generally below 4%. Source: Wells Fargo Bank Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary

WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing		Market Commentary
CONV	RATE	6.38%	APR
FHA		6.75%		6.79%
10 Yr Yield		4.10%
		Lower borrowing costs would benefit residential real estate. Housing starts downshifted to roughly a 1.5 million-unit annualized pace in December, unwinding some of its robust gain in November. While home construction has been choppy throughout the year, the underlying trend shows single-family strengthening and multifamily weakening. The average 30-year fixed mortgage rate may still be elevated, but it has fallen more than a full percentage point since late October. That has supported home builder confidence and single-family building permits going into the spring selling season. Meantime, the robust pipeline of apartment units currently under construction has cooled new development in the multifamily space. It will take more than a percentage point move on mortgage rates to get would-be sellers to move out of their homes. Many current homeowners bought or refinanced in 2020 and 2021 when mortgage rates were generally below 4%. Source: Wells Fargo Bank Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary
