WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 6.65%	APR 6.91%
FHA	6.25%	7.27%
10 Yr Yield	4.54%		The FOMC has cut rates at each of its past three meetings, since September, amounting to a cumulative reduction of 100 bps. The upper bound of the target range now sits at 4.50%; however, a pause in the easing cycle seems likely at the next meeting and is widely expected by market participants. Economic growth has been strong entering 2025, and inflation has proved to be less cooperative than the FOMC would like. Comments from many policymakers at the Fed have highlighted the risks to further policy accommodation with PCE inflation still sitting at 2.4% year-over-year and core PCE inflation running at 2.8%. While the risks to the inflation side of the Fed's dual mandate have remained apparent, the risks to the employment mandate have subsided somewhat compared to a few months ago. The unemployment rate dropped a tenth to 4.1% in December, and nonfarm payroll growth has now been north of 200K in each of the past two months. Looking forward, we expect the Fed to remain on hold for the first half of the year. We then look for two cuts of 25bps each during the September and December meetings, with the FOMC holding its target range at 3.75%-4.00% throughout 2026. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 6.65%	APR 6.91%
FHA	6.25%	7.27%
10 Yr Yield	4.54%		The FOMC has cut rates at each of its past three meetings, since September, amounting to a cumulative reduction of 100 bps. The upper bound of the target range now sits at 4.50%; however, a pause in the easing cycle seems likely at the next meeting and is widely expected by market participants. Economic growth has been strong entering 2025, and inflation has proved to be less cooperative than the FOMC would like. Comments from many policymakers at the Fed have highlighted the risks to further policy accommodation with PCE inflation still sitting at 2.4% year-over-year and core PCE inflation running at 2.8%. While the risks to the inflation side of the Fed's dual mandate have remained apparent, the risks to the employment mandate have subsided somewhat compared to a few months ago. The unemployment rate dropped a tenth to 4.1% in December, and nonfarm payroll growth has now been north of 200K in each of the past two months. Looking forward, we expect the Fed to remain on hold for the first half of the year. We then look for two cuts of 25bps each during the September and December meetings, with the FOMC holding its target range at 3.75%-4.00% throughout 2026. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 6.65%	APR 6.91%	The FOMC has cut rates at each of its past three meetings, since September, amounting to a cumulative reduction of 100 bps. The upper bound of the target range now sits at 4.50%; however, a pause in the easing cycle seems likely at the next meeting and is widely expected by market participants. Economic growth has been strong entering 2025, and inflation has proved to be less cooperative than the FOMC would like. Comments from many policymakers at the Fed have highlighted the risks to further policy accommodation with PCE inflation still sitting at 2.4% year-over-year and core PCE inflation running at 2.8%. While the risks to the inflation side of the Fed's dual mandate have remained apparent, the risks to the employment mandate have subsided somewhat compared to a few months ago. The unemployment rate dropped a tenth to 4.1% in December, and nonfarm payroll growth has now been north of 200K in each of the past two months. Looking forward, we expect the Fed to remain on hold for the first half of the year. We then look for two cuts of 25bps each during the September and December meetings, with the FOMC holding its target range at 3.75%-4.00% throughout 2026.
