WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 2.61%	APR 2.91%
FHA	RATE 2.25%	APR 2.91%
10 Yr Yield	1.21%		Housing starts ended 2020 at their strongest monthly pace since 2006, despite continued weakness in multifamily starts. Single-family starts were up 27.8% in December, as builders tried to keep up with seemingly insatiable demand. Unlike many other parts of the economy, the housing sector boomed in 2020. That said, the sector has faced its share of setbacks. Since COVID restrictions curtailed construction last spring, builders have had difficulty finding workers and supplies. These headwinds have pushed builders into building more expensive homes and have broadly weighed on their ability to boost inventories, which remain near historic lows. These factors, along with the broader COVID-driven pull back in December, weighed on builder confidence in January. Likewise, we expect to see a slight moderation in housing starts to a still-high 1,642K-unit pace in January. Source: Wells Fargo Bank. Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary

			Housing starts ended 2020 at their strongest monthly pace since 2006, despite continued weakness in multifamily starts. Single-family starts were up 27.8% in December, as builders tried to keep up with seemingly insatiable demand. Unlike many other parts of the economy, the housing sector boomed in 2020. That said, the sector has faced its share of setbacks. Since COVID restrictions curtailed construction last spring, builders have had difficulty finding workers and supplies. These headwinds have pushed builders into building more expensive homes and have broadly weighed on their ability to boost inventories, which remain near historic lows. These factors, along with the broader COVID-driven pull back in December, weighed on builder confidence in January. Likewise, we expect to see a slight moderation in housing starts to a still-high 1,642K-unit pace in January. Source: Wells Fargo Bank. Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary

			Housing starts ended 2020 at their strongest monthly pace since 2006, despite continued weakness in multifamily starts. Single-family starts were up 27.8% in December, as builders tried to keep up with seemingly insatiable demand. Unlike many other parts of the economy, the housing sector boomed in 2020. That said, the sector has faced its share of setbacks. Since COVID restrictions curtailed construction last spring, builders have had difficulty finding workers and supplies. These headwinds have pushed builders into building more expensive homes and have broadly weighed on their ability to boost inventories, which remain near historic lows. These factors, along with the broader COVID-driven pull back in December, weighed on builder confidence in January. Likewise, we expect to see a slight moderation in housing starts to a still-high 1,642K-unit pace in January. Source: Wells Fargo Bank. Weekly Economic & Financial Commentary
