			New home sales surged 20.7% in March, and sales for February were revised significantly higher. Builders report exceptionally strong demand and are selling homes faster than they can build them. Our housing forecast was already fairly lofty, with new home sales expected to rise 9.9% and housing starts expected to rise 6.8% to 1.49 million units. We would raise our housing forecast further if we thought the industry could ramp up construction even more. As it is, the industry is extremely supply constrained, with housing lots, labor and lumber all posing significant constraints. We expect sales and new construction to moderate from their recent pace. Demand is not the problem, however. New home sales are every bit as strong as this morning's headline-grabbing 20.7% increase suggests. Builders are selling out new communities in days and are often having to limit sales, even after raising prices. The strength in housing demand is rapidly approaching historic proportions, something the industry and regulatory environment are unprepared for. Source: Wells Fargo Bank. NATIONAL BUILDER DIVISION

WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV	RATE	APR
	2.86%	3.07%	New home sales surged 20.7% in March, and sales for February were revised significantly higher. Builders report exceptionally strong demand and are selling homes faster than they can build them. Our housing forecast was already fairly lofty, with new home sales expected to rise 9.9% and housing starts expected to rise 6.8% to 1.49 million units. We would raise our housing forecast further if we thought the industry could ramp up construction even more. As it is, the industry is extremely supply constrained, with housing lots, labor and lumber all posing significant constraints. We expect sales and new construction to moderate from their recent pace. Demand is not the problem, however. New home sales are every bit as strong as this morning's headline-grabbing 20.7% increase suggests. Builders are selling out new communities in days and are often having to limit sales, even after raising prices. The strength in housing demand is rapidly approaching historic proportions, something the industry and regulatory environment are unprepared for. Source: Wells Fargo Bank. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

CONV	RATE 2.86%	APR 3.07%
FHA	2.25%	2.91%	New home sales surged 20.7% in March, and sales for February were revised significantly higher. Builders report exceptionally strong demand and are selling homes faster than they can build them. Our housing forecast was already fairly lofty, with new home sales expected to rise 9.9% and housing starts expected to rise 6.8% to 1.49 million units. We would raise our housing forecast further if we thought the industry could ramp up construction even more. As it is, the industry is extremely supply constrained, with housing lots, labor and lumber all posing significant constraints. We expect sales and new construction to moderate from their recent pace. Demand is not the problem, however. New home sales are every bit as strong as this morning's headline-grabbing 20.7% increase suggests. Builders are selling out new communities in days and are often having to limit sales, even after raising prices. The strength in housing demand is rapidly approaching historic proportions, something the industry and regulatory environment are unprepared for. Source: Wells Fargo Bank.
