			The pullback in homebuying has not been limited to just the existing market. New home sales have slowed considerably so far this year, declining in each of the first four months of 2022. May brought a surprising 10.7% jump in sales, however. The monthly increase puts the pace of new home sales 5.9% below the pace registered in May 2021. The explanation for May's rebound in new home sales is that buyers likely rushed to buy in order to lock in a relatively favorable mortgage rate before financing costs rose even further. Similarly, expectations for higher rates look to have spurred an increase in mortgage applications for purchase in recent weeks. Purchase applications rose 7.9% during the week ended June 17 and 8.1% during the week ended June 10. Unfortunately, the recent improvement in new home sales and purchase applications does nothing to change our view that higher borrowing costs will bring about a sharp slowdown in home sales in coming months and that a housing market "reset" is well underway. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing		Market Commentary
CONV	RATE 5.58%	APR 5.59%
FHA	4.75%	4.99%
10 Yr Yield	3.17%	The pullback in homebuying has not been limited to just the existing market. New home sales have slowed considerably so far this year, declining in each of the first four months of 2022. May brought a surprising 10.7% jump in sales, however. The monthly increase puts the pace of new home sales 5.9% below the pace registered in May 2021. The explanation for May's rebound in new home sales is that buyers likely rushed to buy in order to lock in a relatively favorable mortgage rate before financing costs rose even further. Similarly, expectations for higher rates look to have spurred an increase in mortgage applications for purchase in recent weeks. Purchase applications rose 7.9% during the week ended June 17 and 8.1% during the week ended June 10. Unfortunately, the recent improvement in new home sales and purchase applications does nothing to change our view that higher borrowing costs will bring about a sharp slowdown in home sales in coming months and that a housing market "reset" is well underway. WEEKLY FINANCIAL NEWS

Financing			Market Commentary
CONV		RATE	APR	The pullback in homebuying has not been limited to just the existing market. New home sales have slowed considerably so far this year, declining in each of the first four months of 2022. May brought a surprising 10.7% jump in sales, however. The monthly increase puts the pace of new home sales 5.9% below the pace registered in May 2021. The explanation for May's rebound in new home sales is that buyers likely rushed to buy in order to lock in a relatively favorable mortgage rate before financing costs rose even further. Similarly, expectations for higher rates look to have spurred an increase in mortgage applications for purchase in recent weeks. Purchase applications rose 7.9% during the week ended June 17 and 8.1% during the week ended June 10. Unfortunately, the recent improvement in new home sales and purchase applications does nothing to change our view that higher borrowing costs will bring about a sharp slowdown in home sales in coming months and that a housing market "reset" is well underway.
